Description

Version:
The Versaflo™ TR600 powered air respirator set protects against particles, gases and vapours. It offers the facility to choose between three different air flow steps which can be adjusted using a control panel. Integral electronics continuously monitor the air flow to the head part and the charge level of the battery. There is no need for calibration. The sturdy strap is suitable for use in environments with high temperatures and possible generation of sparks. The device can be cleaned in a plunge bath or under a decontamination shower.
Standard:
EN 12941
